

EHRA Project

Emergency Humanitarian Response

Implemented from 2024 to 2026, the EHRA project addressed the urgent humanitarian needs of displaced populations and host communities in Mali. In collaboration with local partners ASG and ALPHALOG, the project helped strengthen food security, access to water, and the protection of women and girls amid a protracted crisis.

Areas of Timbuktu, Segou and Bandiagara

218,010 people
reached, 70% of whom were women and girls

Vital food assistance

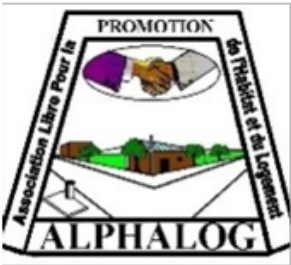

7,232 households received food kits consisting of rice, millet, beans, oil, and salt, in accordance with food consumption standards (Food Consumption Score), thereby ensuring an adequate nutritional intake.

The EHRA project is funded by the U.S. government and implemented by CECI in partnership with ASG and ALPHALOG in Mali.

UNITED STATES of AMERICA

KEY RESULTS

- ♦ 7,232 households received food assistance; 100% of the households monitored achieved an acceptable food consumption score and a low level of hunger (HHS) following the assistance. 2,645 households were provided with kitchen and emergency kits.
- ♦ 5,555 households received hygiene and sanitation kits, and 14,135 households were educated on good hygiene practices and disease prevention.
- ♦ 500 women and girls were trained and provided with menstrual hygiene kits.
- ♦ Hygiene awareness campaigns reached 84,810 people.
- ♦ 20 safe spaces provided shelter for 8,228 women and girls.
- ♦ 820 community and religious leaders, as well as men and boys, were trained in the prevention of sexual violence to bring about lasting behavioral change.
- ♦ Community-based mechanisms are strengthening access to psychosocial services and the prevention of gender-based violence.

The WASH kits will protect us from several waterborne diseases. This assistance is truly a relief for us women; it will allow us to provide food for our households for quite some time.

Nana Touré,
56, Tonka

Protection and Safe Spaces for Women and Girls

In terms of protection, 20 safe spaces—dedicated to listening to and protecting women and girls—have been established in the three regions to prevent gender-based violence. These spaces serve as entry points to refer survivors to appropriate support services; they have welcomed 8,228 women and girls.

Nearly 74,000 people were educated about gender-based violence and community protection mechanisms.

A Local Partnership for Sustainable Action

The strength of the EHRA project lies in its community-based approach. By collaborating closely with the Malian organizations ASG and ALPHALOG, as well as with local and traditional authorities, the project ensures acceptance and strengthens to respond to crises.

